

Mini Project:

Lyre Festival – The ultimate festival Held on the tropical paradise of Craggy Island.

Brief:

You have been asked by the Tourism Board of Craggy Island to develop the website for the Lyre Festival on Craggy Islands. The festival is to be held in February and is catered towards elite influencers and their followers.

Some of the most influential live musicians will be headline:

- George Michael
- David Bowie
- Ed Sheeran
- Any many more!

As the website from end developer, you will be responsible for creating a website that will appeal to the exclusive clients such:

- Hipsters
- People with more money than sense
- Influencers

The website should meet W3C standards and meet the following criteria:

- Provide an overview of the festival and the place where it is being held.
- Detail the musicians that are playing live.
- A map of the festival area so guests can look around.
- Places to eat and the menus.
- A contact form so people can make enquiries.
- A booking form – payments will not be taken during booking, but they should be given a message.

Make sure that you use a wide variety of tags and elements in your website.

You should use a division-based layout and tags should have suitable IDs.

You are encouraged to research festival websites prior to starting to help guide your design choice.
